Come children,
Come out of the shadows.
Reveal your many faces
To the world around you.
Show them that
Your heart
Goes deeper
Than a surface glance affords.

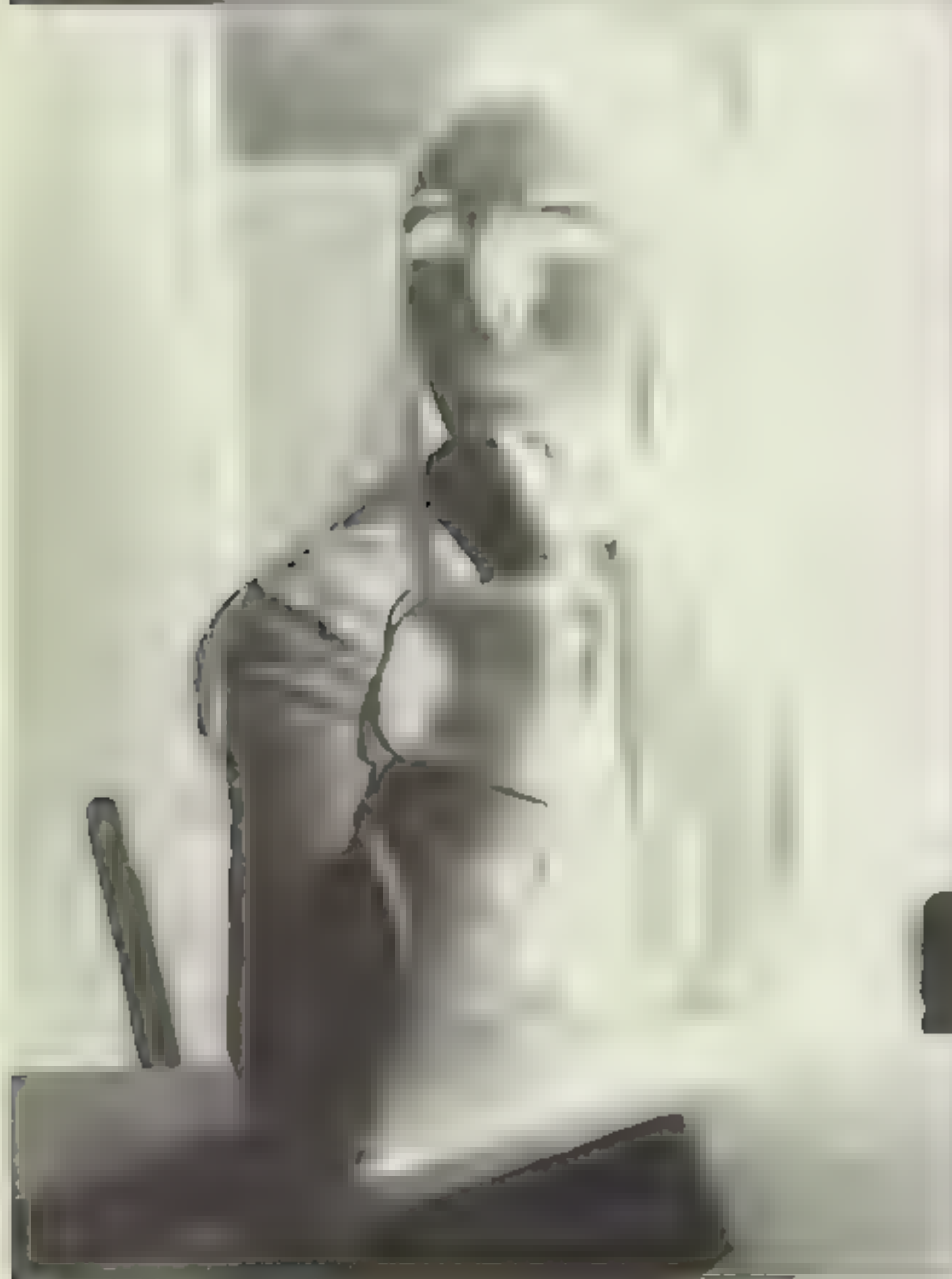

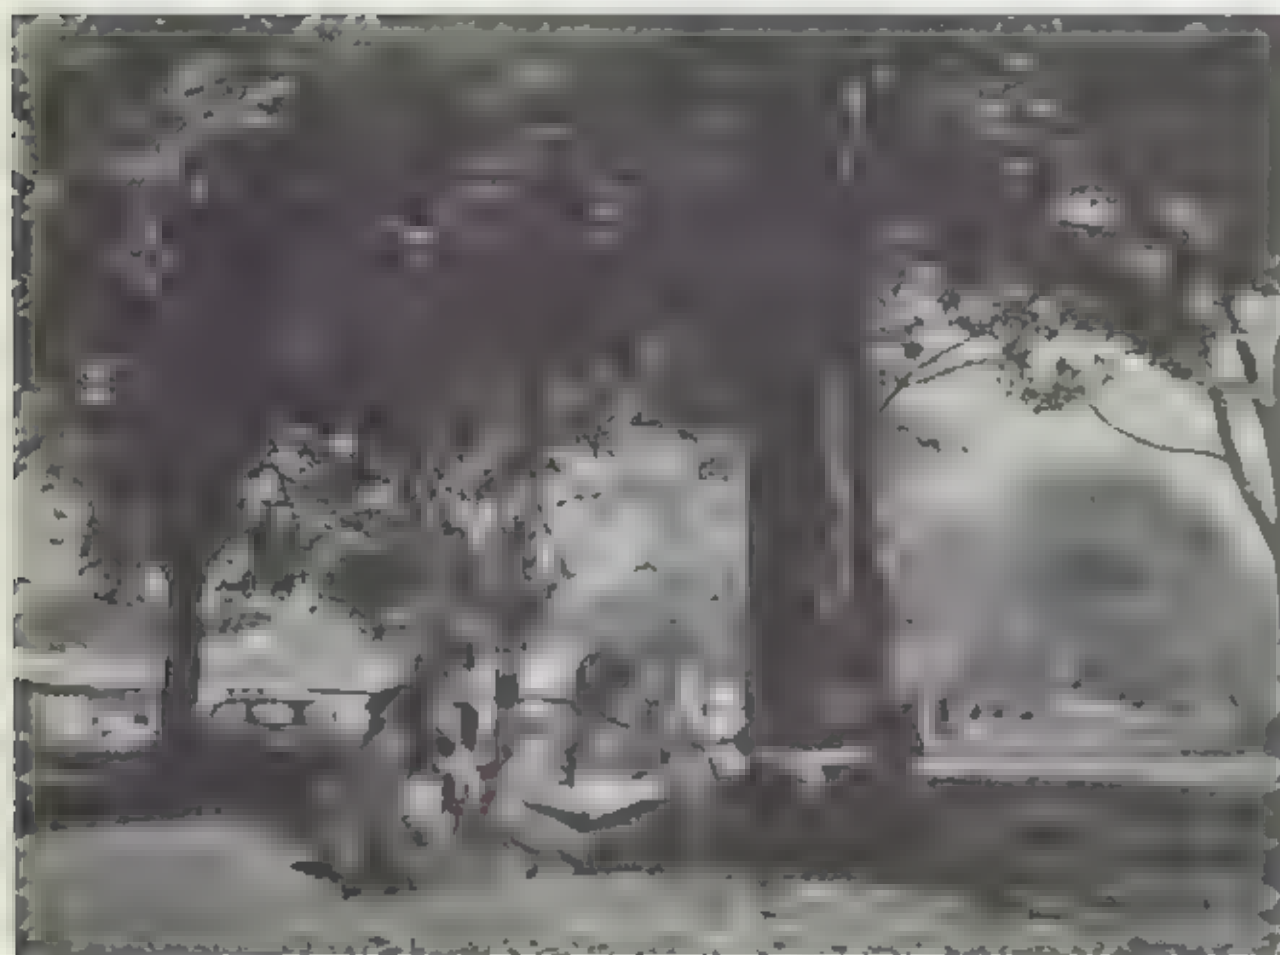

Don't let the joy of living
Pass you by simply because
You lack the compassion,
Understanding,
And communication
So desperately needed
To live
With your brother.

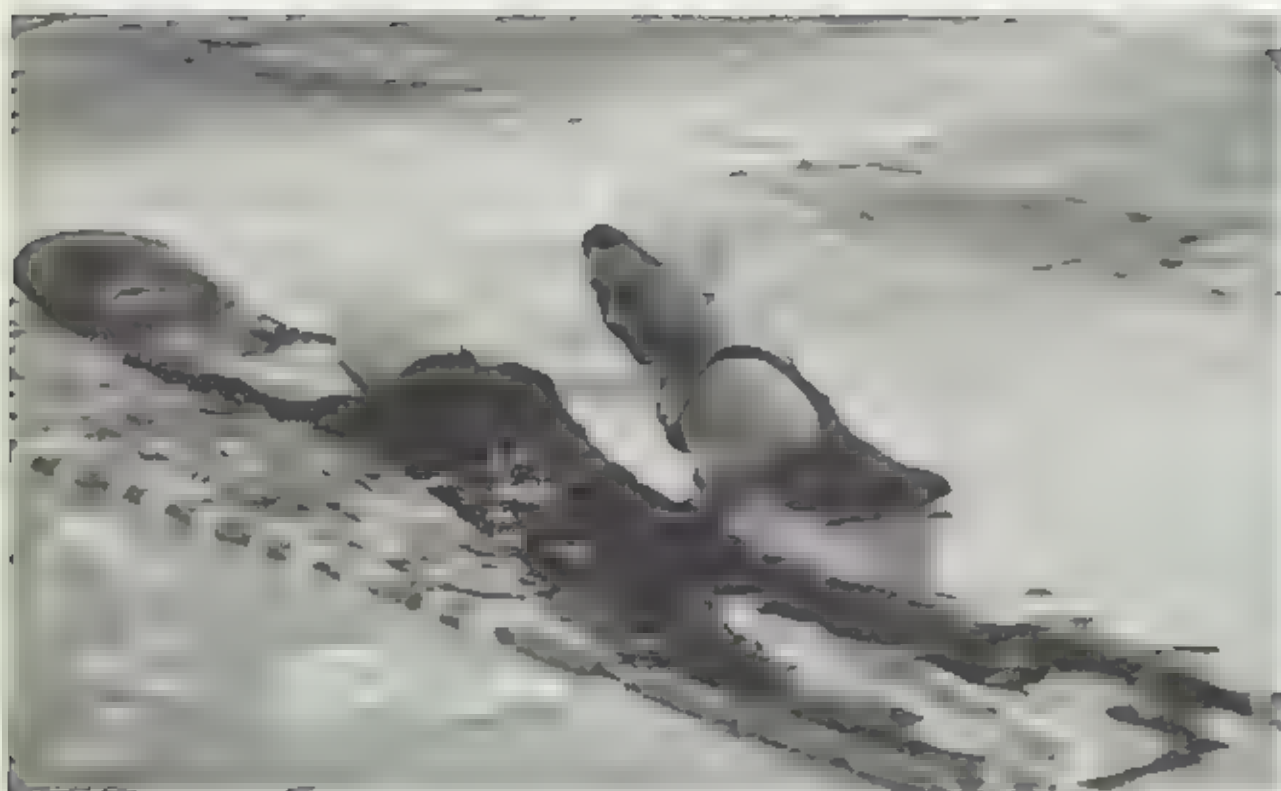

Black and white,
 White and black,
 Green, blue, yellow
 Colors.
 That's all they are,
 Colors.
 Japanese, Negro, Indian, Jew
 People,
 Trying to love each other.
 Radicals, reactionaries,
 Moderates.
 Respect them,
 Because they believe.
 Yesterday, today and Tomorrow.
 To some only a wrinkle
 In time.

Remove yourself
From a world of hate,
Where discrimination and distrust
Run rampant as leaves
In an autumn wind
Walk proud in a sun
Shining with improvement and accomplishment.
Come children,
Come out of the shadows.

Without education
 No life is complete.
 Our society is doing
 Its utmost
 To put the privilege
 Of an education before us.
 The choice is ours—
 As individuals we can
 Establish education as a
 Foundation for our lives
 Or ignore the opportunity
 And prejudice our minds
 Against our civilization.

books, like friends, should be few

A major change initiated by the English Department called for Sophomore study in American Literature which had been previously taught in the Jun or year. The Freshmen started their first year of study from a general course in literature

Two of the many works that were read and analyzed included Romeo and Juliet and Lilies of the Field. Juniors continued their studies in American and English Literature

Seniors concentrated their studies on man's nature through a comparative study of modern and classical works. Some of the works which the Seniors used were Hamlet, Macbeth, The Masque of Reason, and Gulliver's Travels. Speech and debate classes, as elective courses, helped to promote the student's confidence in verbal communication through individual and group research

The dramatics classes worked chiefly with the interpretation of plays

Through training and practice, the student developed more fully his physical and mental abilities. Several new teachers joined forces with the English Department including Miss Cwidak, Mrs. Picconi,

Mrs. Ritinger, Miss Rousseve,

Mrs. Spohnholz, and Miss Wills.

The purchase of 16 new typewriters greatly improved the facilities used by students of the Business Department.

Dictation tests were taken each week, in Shorthand II classes, to improve speed and skill up to 120 words per minute.

The length of time each student took to type 5 letters was another testing device for all Shorthand II classes.

Transcribing units were used by students in office training classes for practice in dictation.

Other machines used were rotary calculators, key driven calculators, ten key adding machines and mimeograph machines.

Department head was Miss Walsh.

Rick Rydzynski, Dave Vance, Craig Bridge, Harry Price, Ken Spigle, and Jerry Lindely were participants in the final contest held at John Adams on May 9.

Alternates for the contest were Mike Taelman, Randy Sayers, Mike Ingalls and Mark Dingley.

Investigating committees were formed to examine textbook adaptations which are to be made for the 1970-71 books.

Attendance aides were a great help to the office. Girls, grouped by two's for every hour of the day, collected attendance slips, recorded all absences, answered the telephone and delivered messages. Girls working at the switchboard directed all incoming calls to the proper office. Attendance aides were Nancy Langwith, Marian Miller, Margaret Roe, Anna Stoffer, Patricia Keppler, Laura Mais, Sandra Mershon, Linda Meilner, Terri Nowicki, Susan Vleaminck, Karen Slutsky, Jackie Scheiman, Yvonne Bennett, Cindy Rensberger, Bonnie Ballou, Laura McNabb, and Beth Arneson. Switchboard operators included Cheryl Danch, Leslie Borough, Cindy McKinney, Kathy Fredenburg, Sue Cunningham, Becky Marler, Debbie Mitchell and fourth year helper, Mary Jo Grams.

An increase of enrollment made possible an extension of one to four classes in earth science courses. Biology professors from Notre Dame were speakers for several of the science classes.

Extensive research was done by students in Biology II classes on particular diseases of the human body, and individual reports were then given orally before all members of the class.

Also in Biology II, a cheese day was held in order for students to study bacteria which had formed on all different types of cheese. Department head was Mr. Reber.

96 Freshmen elected to take Humanities, a study of the heritage of western man. A special Humanities activity involved the students writing, directing, acting, and producing their own plays. A majority of juniors participated in a team teaching program which allowed for small group discussions and individual reading programs. Many juniors also went to Dearborn, Michigan, on October 17, 22, and 31 to visit Greenfield Village and the Ford Plant. Seniors explored and debated current issues and problems in Contemporary Society through individual research and discussion. Other courses offered were World History and Introduction to Social Studies. Mr. Roop headed the department.

Weekly small group discussions, of which Kathy Barker is a participant, explore problem areas ranging from the past, all the way to the present. Informal group discussions are a part of the U.S. History team teaching schedule.

A Gold Key was awarded Miss Tami Vanderhagen, Adams solo winner in the Scholastic Arts Show. Robertson's Department Store displayed the winning pieces of art February 7 to February 21. Basic art was the requirement for all beginning students before more advanced art courses could be taken. A minimum of nine projects for the year were required from all students taking drawing and graphics. Projects in the drawing and graphics classes were done in silk screen, wood cut and linoleum. Projects in ceramics and sculpture classes included such things as head sculptures done in wood, pottery and jewelry. Mr. Seeley was the Art Department head.

Though competition was great, the orchestra was selected from among high school orchestras representing all areas of the state. Harmony, the theory of music, was a new elective course offered by the department. New additions to the marching, symphonic and concert band were a xylophone and red velvetoated drums and sousaphones. Concert choir members were given grade credits because of daily practices beginning at 7.10 A.M. The highlight of the year was the Adams musical, My Fair Lady, presented May 7, 8, and 9. Golf classes, which were held in the spring, traveled to the golf course.

Team teaching was also incorporated in the Physical Education Department.

The apparatus room was used for the team teaching method of learning. The Girls' Sports Club, as an inter-school program, provided the active girl with additional recreation. Behind the idea of physical fitness was the hope of all teachers that there would be an exchange of technique among the students in all forms of athletic ability.

Representatives from several foreign countries were speakers for the foreign foods study in Mrs. Putnam's Foods 11 classes. Department head was Mrs. Schultz. poe has fourth straight winning season

For the fourth year in a row, Coach Dan Poe and his fleet-footed road runners came up with a winning season. Adams had considerable difficulty containing both Elkhart and Michigan City. The cross country may well have beaten Michigan City, but injuries in key positions deprived the Eagles of all important team depth. Losing to City twice and to Elkhart once left Adams in third place in the Northern Indiana Conference with a 10-3-1 record. The Most Valuable Player for the Eagles was Dale Mais, who frequently finished first in the dual meets. Running behind Mais were seniors Walter Berndt, and Ron Muncie. A strong team of juniors, Al Smith, Pat McNulty, Bill Thistlethwaite, and Chuck McGowan, provided a constant attack on Eagle opponents. The performance of the 1969 cross country team has never been equaled.

The Harriers jump to a fast start on their way to a successful 10-3 campaign, placing third in the conference

The John Adams Netters, after spending one entire year rebuilding came up with a great campaign for the 1969 season. The netters started the season by winning two straight, only to be defeated in their third match by Mishawaka. Rebounding from this defeat, the netters went on to win the next seven matches, finishing the season with a 9-1 record. Bob Brickley and his brother John played exceptionally well throughout the entire seasonal competition. However, these two players came up with even better performances during the sectionals. Bob, the team's most valuable player, undoubtedly played his best match in the sectional tournament, finishing with an individual first in the competition. Overall Coach Saunders' team placed second and went on to the regional competition.

eagles compile strong 5-5 season,

For the first time in years, John Adams played a ten game schedule. Coach Bob Wilbur's Eagles were without physical strength, but had unmatched talent in key positions. In the early part of the season, the team showed a lack of experience. This lack of experience took its toll in close games against Marian, Mishawaka, and Hammond Noll. As the season progressed, Adams became more powerful. The highlight of the later season was the LaPorte game. Behind sixteen points in the second quarter, Adams surged ahead for a 28-16 win. The next week, Adams faced Washington, the number one team in the state. The Eagles were the only team that seemed to have a chance against the Panthers. Because of the passing of Tom Ehlers and the running of Tim Madison, Adams proved their potential by scoring early in the game and dominating the whole first half. Again, as in the early season, lack of size proved to be damaging. The entire campaign was characterized by mistakes and breaks balancing for a 5-5 season.

b-team avenges only loss

Because of exceptional depth and brilliant defensive play, the B football team compiled an outstanding record. The only loss of the season came at the hands of Riley, 22-6. This defeat did not dampen the team's spirits, however, as they were able to defeat the Wildcats, 2-0, later in the season. This exciting game, played on a muddy field, provided a great finish for Coach Buczkowski and his team. The offensive unit on this year's squad was effective, but it was far outshined by a great defense. Intimidating their opponents, the defense caused many turnovers and were often able to capitalize on mistakes made by the other team. Many members of this year's B team also played varsity. Such defensive players as Denis Burns, Rick Newbill, and Mike Kiley helped to spark a great defensive effort, while quarterback Joe Fragomeni, halfback Marty Katz, and fullback Lionel Bolden added power and speed to the offense. Much credit for the success of this team must go to Coach Buczkowski. Rebounding from last year's poor season, he was able to pick the team up and reverse last year's record, coming up with a 6-1 effort for this season.

The 1969 Freshman Football team was one of the largest in the history at John Adams. Not only was there a large turnout, but also many of the members possessed exceptional physical size. As in the past, Coach Vincent Laurits led his Eagles to another successful season. This year the Frosh posted a 6-2 mark. One of these two losses was an 8-6 heart-breaker to the Riley Wildcats. This fine season was characterized by solid performances by the defense and clinching plays on the offense. These actions were especially apparent in the games against the LaSalle Lions and the Central Bears. The team was led throughout the season by captain Greg Hall, who, as the most valuable lineman, imposed crushing blocks and ripping tackles on the opponents. Hall's teammate, James Phillips was voted most valuable back because of his frequent game-saving plays. Both players received these honors through the vote of the entire Freshman team. Because the team played as a unit, they combined for another fine season as freshmen of John Adams High School.

strong 6-4 season

Coach Aronson yells out helpful information to one of his boys. Mr. Aronson led the team to a successful 6-4 season.

The John Adams wrestling team, coached by Moe Aronson completed the 1969-70 season with a successful record of six wins and four losses. Key matches such as the tie with Central and the victories over LaPorte and Elkhart reflected strong contests on the part of the entire squad. First year wrestler Tim Madison was the outstanding wrestler compiling an excellent individual record. His first place finish in sectional competition and his third place finish in the regionals were a great accomplishment. Captain Charlie Martin's strong efforts were complemented by the performances of Bruce Cassidy wrestling at ninety-five pounds, Don Price at one hundred and twelve pounds, Eugene Russell at one twenty, Eddie Scott at one twenty-seven, John Boinger at one thirty-eight, Phil Kendall at one forty-five, Bob Nyikos at one fifty-four, Tim Madison at one sixty-five, Rick Madison at one eighty, and Mike Bergren, heavyweight. Through strong effort they finished third in the NIC.

hadaway coaches team

The Adams varsity basketball team completed the 1969-70 season with a 20-3 record. Under the coaching of Dave Hadaway, the Eagles built up a 19-2 regular season record and earned an eighth place ranking in the state polls. Going into the sectional as favorite, the team was upset in overtime by LaSalle, 73-70. Led by the boardwork of T. C. Jamison and Tony Lawrence, the Adams team was characterized by a strong offense. This year's squad twice topped previous school scoring records. John Alexander, who assisted Lawrence and Jamison under the boards, contributed additional rebounding strength. The backcourt work for this year's team was provided by Jerone Mincey, Ed Haak, and Timm Barnbrook. The outside shooting of Mincey and Barnbrook, combined with the floorwork of Haak contributed greatly to the team effort. The teamwork of this year's squad was evident in that four out of the five starters averaged in double figures. Other members of the 1969-70 Eagles were Tom Ehlers, Tim Scheu, Bob Moore, Pete Kohen, Glenn McKenzie, and Vernon Lighthall.

Coach George Griffith and the B-team had numerous bad breaks throughout the season. The record 9-11 does not reflect the true potential of the team. Of the 11 losses, 10 were lost by no more than three points. This B-team was one of the most exciting, having numerous overtime games. The high scorer was Gib McKenzie. Wes Dixon provided outstanding ball handling for the Eagles. Page Glaze, Les Woodford, and Joe Fragomeni were other prominent members of the team.

The winning tradition at Adams was upheld by first year Coach Bill Scott and the Freshman Basketball team. The team play was characterized by tough defense and consistent offense. Adams scored 970 points to the opponents' 700. This year's Freshmen were champions of the Freshman League. Rick Balok, Kevin Patterson, and Chub Phillips contributed the drive to this freshman team.

First year coach Don Stites had an outstanding year in that he succeeded in keeping the Adams swimmers on top. The only loss of the season was to Jackson. Leading up to the final relay, Adams showed championship form. This lone defeat was avenged in the City meet. For the seventh consecutive year, Adams won the conference meet. This Adams team seemed to be another state champion. Because of disciplinary action the team was depleted and hopes for the state crown were darkened. Adams ended up second in the sectional and eighth in the state. Jeff Clark, the individual star, was first in the state for the 100 yard freestyle and third in the 50 freestyle. Team depth helped throughout the season. Jim Peltz, Jeff Lichtenfels, Rick Allen, Tom Nova, Denny Daniels, Jay Eckenberger, and Doug Pichard were valuable seniors throughout the season. Juniors John Hall, Dave Feldman, Guy Gullickson, Pat Hickey, Ken Wilkinson, Ralph Zablocki, and Gary Doetsch starred throughout the season.

twenty-two straight victories

Pegge Wilkinson, Peggy Stefucza, and Jenny Lichtenfels dive against arch rival Jackson

Coach Shirley Miller's girls' swimming team was the only undefeated team Adams had in the 1969-70 school year. This team, which has been highly successful, posted twenty-two straight victories and two city championships. The Seagals succeeded because of great individual stars in each event and an exceeding amount of depth. The most valuable member and team captain Terry Boswell swam the individual medley and the butterfly. Seniors Peggy Stefucza and Pegge Wilkinson swam the breaststroke event. Lee Walton, also a senior, swam the backstroke. The diving for the girls' swimming team was led by two-year city champion Susan Stahly, a junior. Seniors Cammy Mahank and Shelly Smith were also star divers. Juniors Jean Magrane and Vicki Ford were the top free stylers on the team. Cindy Decker and Margy Voss were other junior swimmers. In their fourth year of competition, the girls' swimming team, led by Coach Shirley Miller, has succeeded in becoming the top team in the area.

For the first time in its three year existence, Coach Poe's gymnastics team won four meets against tough competition. The top gymnast was senior Ron Muncie, a star on the trampoline and in free exercise. He was able to capture a sixth place finish in the state meet. Other seniors on the squad were Tom Peters on the side horse and Larry Keating. Juniors Ron Miles in free exercise, Ken Back on the rings and Ed Baker on the side horse were also outstanding performers. Other valuable competitors were Tim Gagen and Chuck McGowan. Coach Griffith's golf team posted a fine season record of six wins and six losses. Although this year's squad was young and inexperienced, they performed admirably. With long hours of practice, the team was able to claim fourth place in the sectional. This year's team was led by junior Ken Wilkinson and his little brother Chuck, a freshman.

This year, the girls' sports program consisted of swimming, gymnastics, volleyball, and softball. The swim team was highly successful while placing first in the city under the direction of Mrs. Shirley Miller. The girls' gymnastics squad, coached by Miss Ganser, performed with great success in the LaPorte Invitational. Seniors Annette Krueger and Jackie Scheiman were outstanding members. Underclassmen Pam Peiffer and Mari Fragomeni were great assets to the team. The volleyball team, coached by Miss Ganser, was not a tall team but they compensated for this lack of height through their talent. The captain and most valuable player was Ann Szajko. Other outstanding members were Marian Kasper, Lois Keith, and Judy Osmanski. The softball team, coached by Mrs. Miller, encountered a tough season, relying on its talented juniors trackmen finish second in city

First year coach Mr. William Scott depended a great deal on the strength of his eleven returning lettermen. Of these, the long distance runners were Tom Pawlok, Dick Hawkins, and Ron Muncie. Middle distance runners Dale Mais and Paul Alford, sprinters Ed Freel and Tony Fleming, pole-vaulter Mike Deeter, and hurdler Rich Poropat comprised the nucleus of the squad. Among the important accomplishments of the season were the team's second place finish in the sectional competition and a fourth place in the conference. Individual stars include Mike Deeter with second place in the regional and Paul Alford with a similar finish. Although the team lacked strength in the field events they had strong runners.

Rich Poropat's strained visage reflects the determination and stamina required of all athletes.

eagles gain conference title for

The John Adams baseball team coached by Leonard Buczkowski completed a highly successful season. Of the twenty-five games played, the Eagles lost only four games, three of them non-conference matches. Star players such as Timm Barnbrook, Bob Butch, Pete Kohen, and Jim Szucs consistently played excellent baseball, leading the team to a conference championship.

However, after having won two well-played games in the sectional, the Adams baseball season came to a close with a heartbreaking loss to Clay in the finals. Other important members of this year's squad were Brent Meyers, Bob Nyikos, Gary Barker, Ed Haak, Ken Dempsey, and Marc LaPierre

Joe Raymond, Student Council president, instituted a true student government never before in existence at Adams. Besides the standard Freshman Show-Ya-Round, Back-to-School assemblies, and the Little 500, Student Council also made a study of school problems. Several committees covering areas such as social activities, censorship, academic innovations, counseling, and student-administration communications made year-end evaluations of their findings to the Student Council. Other debatable topics included censure of the athletic dress code, the Viet Nam moratorium, free study halls, and the school dress code. Although the dress code was not abolished, communication channels between the students and administration were widened during a gripe session with Mr. Landry on this controversial subject. Through the efforts of Student Council many students became aware of problems in the school and in our society.

Eagle Ethics redesigned their club when they broke relations with Student Council. Under the guidance of sponsor Mr. John Loughlin, Eagle Ethics promoted various projects including erecting witty clock signs, decorating a showcase, instructing the freshmen on the eleven concepts of the Eagle Ethics code, and honoring the ladies of the cafeteria and the custodians one day in December. Dr. Otis Bowen, Speaker of the Indiana House of Representatives, and the local Up With People group, Sing Out South Bend, were also sponsored by Eagle Ethics. To raise money, Eagle Ethics sold candy bars and manned refreshment stands during the basketball season. Eagle Ethics was led by Brian Stogdill as President, Patricia Peiffer as Secretary, and Janice MacGregor as Treasurer. Membership in Eagle Ethics was restricted, and interested freshmen were asked to submit written applications for possible induction.

The work began July 27, 1969 but it was not until June 11, 1970, almost a year later, that the new 1970 ALBUM was completed. Many more long, hard hours were put into the book than most people realize. The staff was asked to give up their Christmas and spring vacations, to send a certain section in on the deadline, and they gave up their time willingly. The staff, headed by Pegge Wilkinson, also had to dodge many complaints because of improvements and changes in the ALBUM, such as a summer delivery book rather than a spring book. The yearbook staff broke many other, long-standing traditions this year. The most major change was in the ALBUM cover which had never been changed since 1949. The dimensions of the book were also increased to the collegiate size, 9x12. The staff eliminated many of the large club membership pictures in able to spend more time and pages on their social discrimination theme communicate, the beginning of understanding

Kathie Keith and Kurt Heinz, the first co-editors of the Tower, relax after making a deadline. Kathie and Kurt both were honored for editorials they wrote this year

The chance to express one's view and emotions without censorship, except for liable, was given to the students by the new Tower. Students were allowed to sound-off or to show their creative abilities. The paper became more objective, sometimes critical of the administration, society, or the world. The emphasis of the Tower shifted from a "gossip" paper to one which involved the students with problems of today. By sponsoring a Two-Man Invitational Basketball Tournament, the Tower became more versatile. The co-editors, Kathie Keith and Kurt Heinz, worked hard to make the Tower the success that it was. They were assisted by an able staff: Jill Kuespert, news; Cheryl Morfoot and Mike Balok, features; Jim Siberell and Dick Wilson, sports; Jack Torry and Gary Loughridge, ads; Rick Colbert, circulation; Sandi Grabb, business; and Joe Raymond, photographer.

The John Adams Forensic Society is an organization designed to allow students to participate in interscholastic competitions in the area of speech activities. These activities include debate, extemporaneous speaking, humorous, dramatic, or original interpretations, and many others. This year the debate team accumulated over nine trophies and awards in varsity competition including first place in the St. Joe Valley Forensic League, the area conference in debate. For the first time in the history of Adams, a team was sent to the state finals in debate at Evansville, where they finished in sixth place.

Although one of Adams' lesser known activities, the Forensic Society continues to be one of the most active and successful. After having traveled over 1000 miles with sponsor Peter Holmgren, the Forensic Society has become the most successful club at Adams.

the men and women are merely players

"There's no business like show business" is a noble sentiment heartily echoed by every member of the John Adams Drama Club and Thespian Troupe 1464. All of the active members shared in the excitement of each of the four plays, whether they worked behind the scenes painting sets or held leading roles. Miss Rousseve got her first sample of well-disciplined "actors" while directing Meet Me In St. Louis. Following a successful run of Up the Down Staircase directed by Mr. Brady, Miss Rousseve's production of Flowers for Algernon brought excellent drama to the Little Theatre. The final production of the '69-'70 season was the musical extravaganza My Fair Lady directed by Mr. Hoover and Mr. Brady. From the first try-outs for the fall play through the last bagel at the last cast party, a splendid time was shared by all.

Eliza Doolittle, played by Kathy McMan, hides her sorrow beneath a mask of anger as she expresses her bitterness to Professor Henry Higgins, Jim Fox, in My Fair Lady.

The number of members in Mu Alpha Theta was the largest in the history of the club. A successful car wash was held in the fall to provide funds for awards. Field trips were taken to the Notre Dame Computer Center and Camp Eberhart to study astronomy. At the bimonthly meetings members gave special reports on different topics involving mathematics. One such report on the geometrics involved in billiard playing was succeeded by the members gaining first hand experience in playing pool. Members also attempted to solve challenging math problems. Mr. Volney C. Weir, club sponsor, and his wife were hosts to the club for the fall induction and spring awards meeting. Members of the Math Club assisted with the Northern Indiana Math Contest held at Adams. Placing third, the juniors and seniors on the Adams team were all members of the Math Club. Membership in this chapter of the National Math Club was open to any junior or senior majoring in math and maintaining a B average.

A center of controversy and an area of particular interest was National Honor Society. The induction held on March 18 marked two innovations for the club. Fifteen per cent of the junior class were selected for membership instead of the usual practice of admitting ten per cent in the junior year and five per cent in the senior year. Prompted by personal convictions, three seniors declined induction. A committee was organized to examine and offer suggestions for revising the procedure in which students are selected for induction. NHS made the student aware of environmental problems by displaying posters for Earth Day, April 22, and in addition created a standing committee on the environment. Plans for a study help program were also initiated. Participating in Exchange Week, members of NHS observed other Honor Societies throughout the city. NHS sponsored a sweatshirt sale and an Honors Breakfast for those students receiving straight A's.

nature is a mutable cloud which is always

The John Adams Junior Walton League played an important role in the community in its fight on pollution. On Earth Day, the Waltons sponsored an assembly featuring Dr. Eckleberger from Notre Dame. A panel representing the school body directed questions to Dr. Eckleberger in hopes of finding ways they, as students, could join in the fight against pollution. A team of well-informed Waltons visited the local junior high schools and explained to them the ever-increasing pollution problem.

The function of MuBeta, the Medical Biology Club, was to provide a forum where students interested in medicine or one of its allied fields as a future can get an idea of what that profession is like. To accomplish this, various prominent individuals in medicine lectured the club, and MuBeta went on field trips to the South Bend Medical Foundation and the X-Ray Dept. at St. Joe Hospital. The sponsor and officers hoped these activities have aided some students in choosing medicine as a future career.

The glacial solitude of nature is always welcome to one in this busy world today and the Waltons have an intense appreciation of nature's gifts.

This ecology flag, symbol from Earth Day, April 22, signifies concern for the earth and its pollution problems. On Earth Day, the Waltons sponsored an assembly on environmental problems, with Dr. Eckleberger, guest speaker.

Under the influence of a revised constitution, the John Adams Business Club sponsored several projects to promote a better understanding of the business world. A field trip to the Associates Investment Company and a Christmas wrapping paper sale gave members a firsthand insight into the mechanics of our business system. Club membership was open to any student, freshman, sophomore, junior, or senior, who was enrolled in a business course. If one happened to stroll past room 224 after school any day of the week, he might have seen the members of Chess Club in action. As a member, one may participate with the club in promoting chess at Adams and presenting it as a possible avocation in later life. This year, Chess Club attempted to communicate with other high schools in the Michiana area in order to help them begin clubs. From this effort, the chessmen hoped to locate competition for their own tournament team. Other activities the club has been involved with have been the revision of the organization of the club and participation in the Indiana High School Chess Tournament held in April. Mr. Jack Goodman, Mr. Jesse Whitcomb, and Mr. John Shanley, sponsors, have collaborated their knowledge of chess skills and techniques and have presented Adams with a team of highly competent chess players.

what is most useful to us

"Hurry! Get the ropes up!" cried Stuart Wolfarth. This was the familiar cry heard throughout the year as the Ushers controlled the crowds at athletic events and pep assemblies. The skill of the Ushers was put to test on the night of the Adams-Michigan City basketball game. Though the Ushers failed to keep the lunging, wild crowd off the floors after the Eagles soared their way to an awe-inspiring victory, they can be credited for skillfully keeping order at all other school and athletic events.

The Audio-Visual men were an indispensable unit to the school. Without their aid and equipment the use of audio-visual materials would be greatly hampered.

Presenting an outstanding production of My Fair Lady proved to be the highlight of another successful year for the Glee Club. Besides the traditional Christmas Vespers program and the Spring Concert at I. U. S. B., the choir presented a Christmas program for the D. A. R. and gave an assembly at Nuner Junior High School. Under the direction of Mr. Robert Hoover the Glee Club took first place in the Northern Indiana Band and Choral Contest for the third consecutive year. you must move your fingers

Everyone likes a parade, and the John Adams Band, with its high-stepping drum majors and baton twirlers, provided enjoyable entertainment in the homecoming and Memorial Day parades. In addition to parades, the Band haunted the halls of the IUSB auditorium with Anatolia-Turkish Rhapsody, and set the thundering pace of many athletic events and pep assemblies. The band took on a new outlook when it was divided into two groups—The Symphonic Wind Ensemble for top players, and the Wind Ensemble for the remainder. All members of the Band participated in the local, district, and state contests. The Band also held a candy sale to help pay for the stylish, new Band uniforms. Directors were Mr. Ollman and Mr. Ansuini.

music exalts each joy,

High honors were bestowed on the orchestra when they were chosen to be the featured orchestra in the Manchester Spring Festival at Manchester College. The orchestra has become more advanced in its style of music. This advanced level has helped to promote musicianship at the high school level and to encourage college music majors. Membership in the orchestra was limited to string players and the top chairs of the Band for Wind sections. Orchestra members participated in the state and district solo-ensemble contests and performed in concerts for the public and school assemblies. The orchestra also received perfect ratings before the State Orchestra Contest. Officers were Dean Darsee, president, Julie Lewis, vice-president, Sara Zoss, secretary, and Jan Shafer, treasurer. Director was Mr. Lewis.

Gayle Sampson proves she is an excellent cellist by focusing all her concentration on her music.

Orchestra director Mr. Gerald Lewis leads the orchestra through the opening bars of the national anthem.

some must be spectators

A loudly decorated red and blue gymnasium brought the newest and most successful full-scale Spirit Week to John Adams High School. Co-sponsored by the Booster Club, this week brought the spirit of the students to the highest peak of the year. This promotion of school spirit was extended to all teams throughout the year through Booster Club sponsored Pep Assemblies, Bus Trips and banners in the halls. To finance these projects the Booster Club held a successful team picture button sale and also sold ribbons for each athletic event. Membership in Booster Club is open to any John Adams student who is interested in boosting school spirit. The following officers provided the leadership for the organization of spirit at John Adams: Jan Hazelton, president, Judi Mueller, vice-president, Sue Beeman, secretary, Sue Pallo, treasurer, and Cindy McKinney, sergeant-at-arms. Samuel A. Companion was the Booster Club sponsor.

Apprehensive or not about the outcome of the football game the Adams' Eagle nevertheless the symbol of strength and spirit, beat all other Adams' foes.

we're

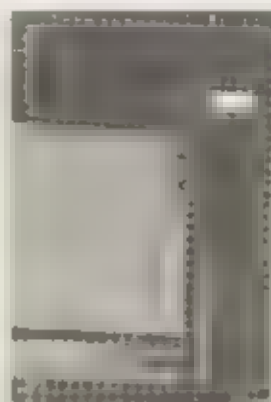

"What are the Eagles gonna do tonight? They're gonna FIGHT . . . FIGHT . . . FIGHT! FIGHT! FIGHT!" Familiar was this battlecry of the Varsity and B-team cheerleaders as they led the school through its most spirited year. Under the supervision of Miss Mary Jane Bauer, the cheerleaders introduced new and exciting cheers and skits to the student body at the pep assemblies. Competition cheers, new this year, between the seniors, juniors, sophomores, and freshmen boosted school spirit. Undeniably, the greatest accomplishment of the cheerleaders, aided by Booster Club and Monogram Club, was Spirit Week. School spirit never known to exist was unleashed as all students and faculty members caught the fever of a possible basketball sectional victory. Although all the classes worked hard, no one could surpass Junior originality in team support. Pep assemblies, skits, new cheers, and bus trips to away football and basketball games comprised the agenda of a successful year for the cheerleaders of John Adams.

In enthusiastic support of the football team, Kathy Molenda leads the sophomores in a competitive cheer.

Hi-Y officers: President, Jim Szucs; Sec. Treas., Bob Buzolich; Ken Krueger, Greg Hall.

This year's Monogram Club was very active in school affairs. They collaborated with Booster Club in sponsoring Spirit Week, and the members also participated in the humorous skits with the cheerleaders during pep assemblies. The money-making project was the annual sale of sports schedules. The selective membership in this club gave one a sense of distinction of achieving excellence in one's respective sport.

The purpose of Hi-Y was to provide informative, social, and service activities for the community. Programs on drugs, youth, in government, and United Nations highlighted the bi-monthly meetings. Hi-Y members also sponsored their annual Adams Eve Fiasco, the Spring Convocation, and the Basketball roster boards for home basketball games. Climax of the year came when Hi-Y took a baseball trip to Chicago in the spring. Officers were Jim Szucs, pres.; Pat Wolf, v. pres.; Bob Buzolich, sec.-treas.; and Mr. Fick, sponsor.

Hi-Y: Chris Casasola, Mike Buzolich, Bill Hagenau, Tom Brownell, Andy Chrzanawski, Steve Molnar, Terry Clayton, Tom Rees.

The Sounds of Silence" was the theme of the senior prom, but not often the theme of the seniors. This class of 1970 was demonstrative, out-spoken and sometimes put their foot in their mouth. Nevertheless they were probably the most concerned class to graduate from Adams. They were the first class to actually bring about important changes in the administration, curriculum and activities of the school. The seniors were also one of the more intelligent classes with fifty percent of the class acquiring a B- or above. Mr. Don David, senior class counselor, advised the 468 seniors on the colleges and universities they wished to attend. Mr. Stanley Mutti and Miss Mary Giannuzzi were the class sponsors. With their aid Brian Stogdill, president; Bob Nyikos, vice-president; Jane Watt, secretary; and Fred Moreno, treasurer, were able to make the year and the prom a great success.

Two movies were viewed as guidance activities. Tell it like it is and Into the World were shown during Tuesday morning guidance periods. Hopefully, the Sophomores gained a perspective idea of our advancing society. From each of the sixteen homerooms one boy and one girl were elected to organize the Sophomore Dance held on March twentieth. Sally Strycker was chosen as chairman by the dance committee, coordinating the several other smaller committees. The dance was self-supporting and was a great success. The sophomores had a comparatively small class with a total of 488 people. Mr. Steinke and Mrs. Seaborg were the class sponsors.

Changing from the traditional late season Freshman Dance, the class held a "Welcome to John Adams High School" dance on October 17. "Shades of Rhyme" were the featured band. The elected Freshman Council handled refreshments, decorations, and publicity through organized committees. Class convocations introduced the academic departments, course offerings and extra-curricular activities. Parents were introduced to Adams life through a Freshman Night. The customary Freshman Show Ya Round was held the first day of school. Miss Davis was the class sponsor for the 518 people in the freshman class.

if they make their job important,

Through the earnest concern of Mr. Virgil Landry and Mr. William Przybysz, John Adams High School has maintained its reputation of being an institution of high standards. This was the third year that Mr. Landry had served as principal with Mr. Przybysz as his assistant. Mr. Landry earned his Bachelor of Science Degree in 1952 at Butler University and his Master of Arts Degree at Ball State University in 1963. While at Indiana University he also did additional graduate work. The major responsibility of Mr. Przybysz was the supervision of student activities. He received his Bachelor of Science Degree in 1958 at Ball State University. He achieved his Master of Arts Degree in secondary school administration in 1965 from the same university.

is relished by the wisest men.

Alert and in readiness to conquer innocent minds, four of Adams' distinguished scholars, Mr. Schutz, Mr. Griffith, Mr. Hadaway, and Mr. Companion, conspire to attain their goal.

Radiating an air of congeniality, the counselors work as a team in guiding students from their first day of confusion to their last day of jubilation.

People behind the scenes such as the cafeteria ladies and the custodians keep John Adams functioning. Mr. John Scott served as head custodian and was in charge of the other maintenance men. With their combined efforts and diligent work they preserved the cleanliness and orderly condition of the school. The duties of the janitors ranged from sweeping the class rooms after school everyday to setting up chairs for an important assembly in the auditorium. In supervision of the cafeteria ladies was Mrs. Leta Seal. At 11:35 each day these women were ready to provide ample and nutritious meals for the student body and faculty members. What we do
 With our lives
 Depends on how much
 We want
 To give of ourselves.
 The opportunities are there .
 The decisions are ours ...
 But the desire
 To do something has to be Initiated from within.
 For some—
 To merely exist
 Is enough.

Left: Ed Haak has a pizza with Mary Wertheimer while he talks about the victory over Elkhart for the N.I.C. championship

21 Twomey prefers to study in the quiet atmosphere of the library than that of study hall

Below The decorating committee for the seniors step to Stephanie Ganser as she explains their plans for spirit week with whom you dare to be yourself

happiness is a habit —

An admit thief is caught as he tries to steal the attendance sheet from the electronics room

cultivate it

The South Bend chapter of Up With People entertained the John Adams student body with a variety of songs

Eddie Cole, Olympic Trampoline star, instructs these Senior boys on the fundamentals of a new game cage ball

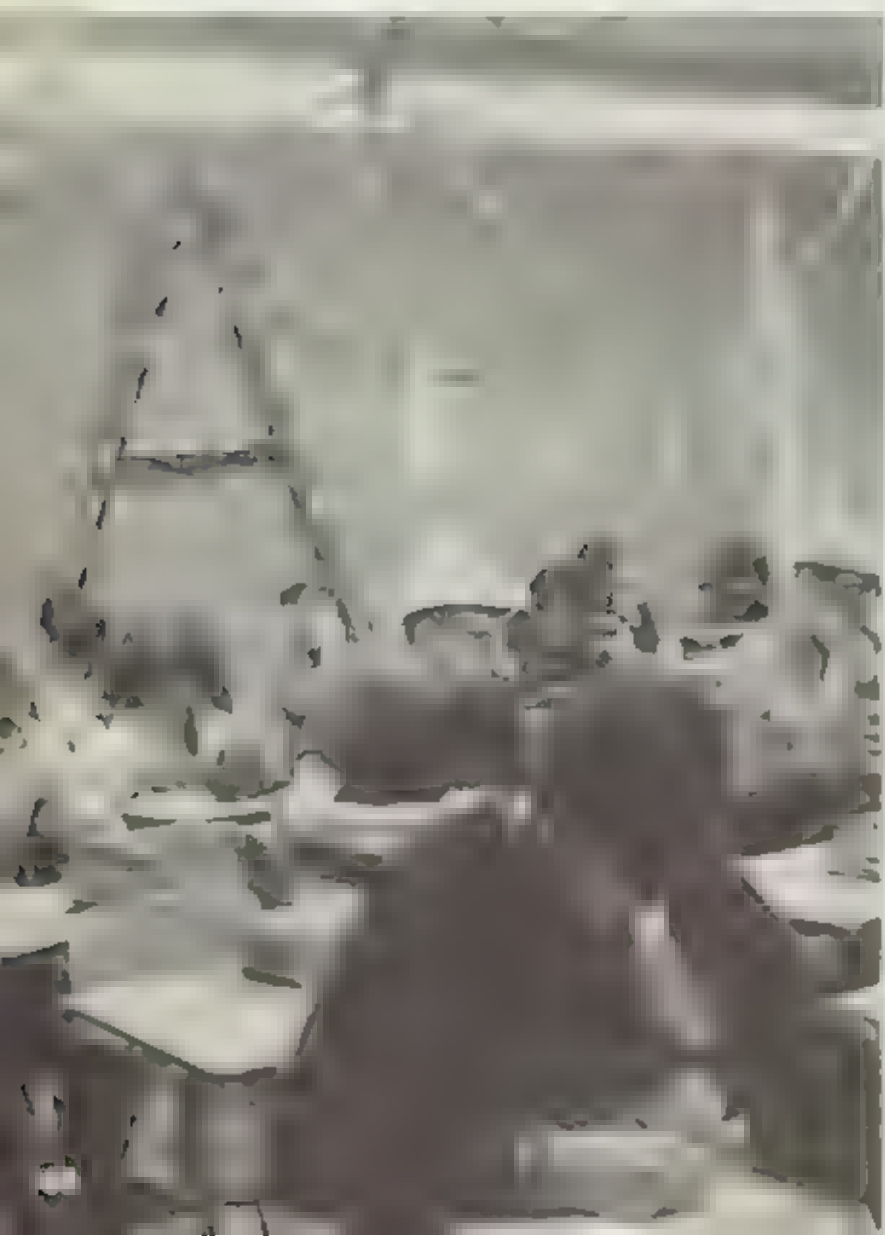

i don't care if it's right or wrong —

Stimulated by the best school spirit in basketball history of the school, even "Old Crow's" skeleton gets with it

Spirit week brought excitement and "great expectations," but unfortunately Great Expectations in English as well

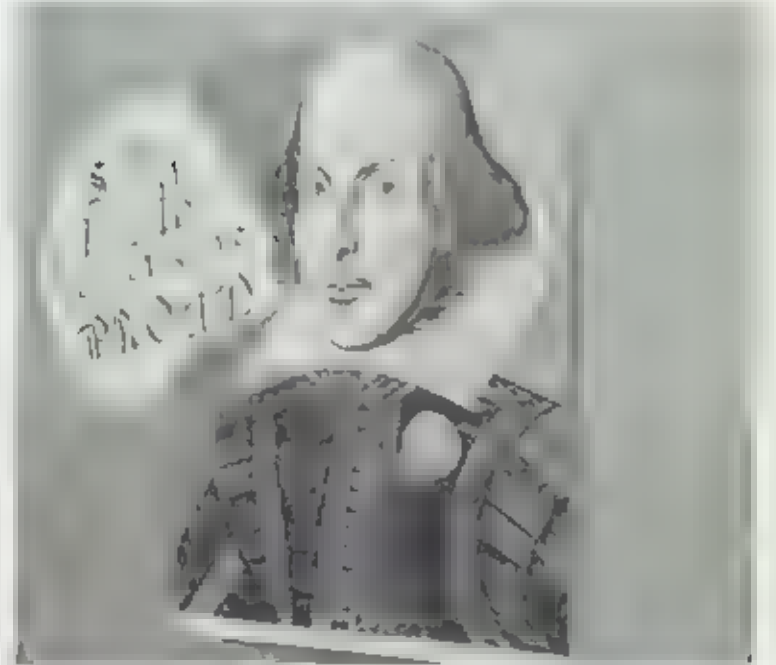

Tony Lawrence makes the first basket after the Pep Band marched through the halls announcing the assembly it's lousing up the game . . .

Right- "Juniors back Madaway's Shack" and prove it by first prize winning decorations before the sectional

Will Shakespeare turns the tables, takes an interest in the student as he sayeth in Olde English—Go Eagles.

Initiated by Homeroom 214, classrooms breakout in a fever of decorations and balloons, balloons, balloons

the Lord prefers common-looking people

The most probable way to get elected to a Student Council Office is to let your name be known

Right: Dick Fowler and Barb Hinds are surprised as they look over at Lynne Browne's locker

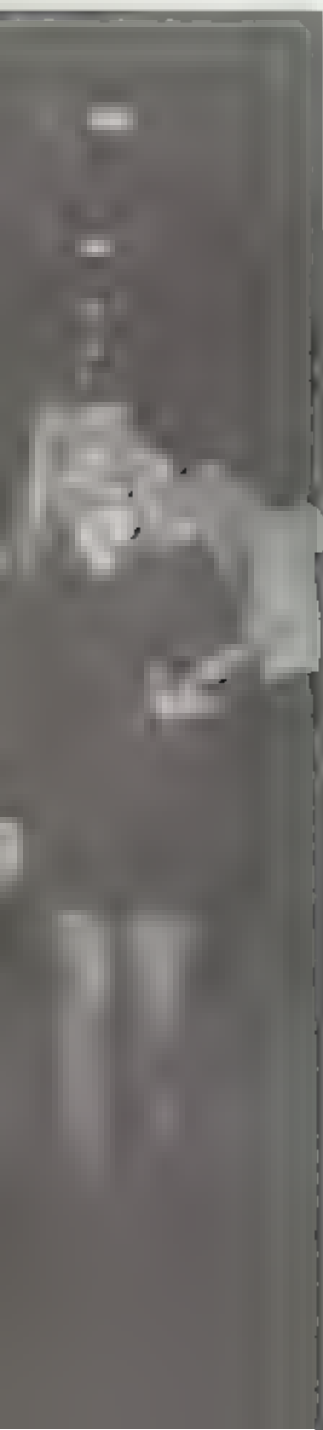

that is the reason He makes so many of them

Skippers try to sneak into school but are caught in the act

Youth comes but once in a lifetime

Pa Wernitz is watching the back hopefully waiting for the last bell of school to ring

a vision which was planted in my brain

Dan Chomyn and Shelly Smith express the feeling of their classmates at the long awaited Senior Prom

The 1970 Senior Prom Court Seated Tracy Kirkwood, Kari Parsonage, Nancy Coleman, Becky Marer, Queen Jim Szucs, King Steven Stryker, Terry Nowke and Caron Olson

Standing Fred Moreno, Kevin LaPierre, Robyn Lake and Brent Meyers

Left: The Juniors experience their first formal dance as upperclassmen at the Junior Prom

there is no security on this earth;

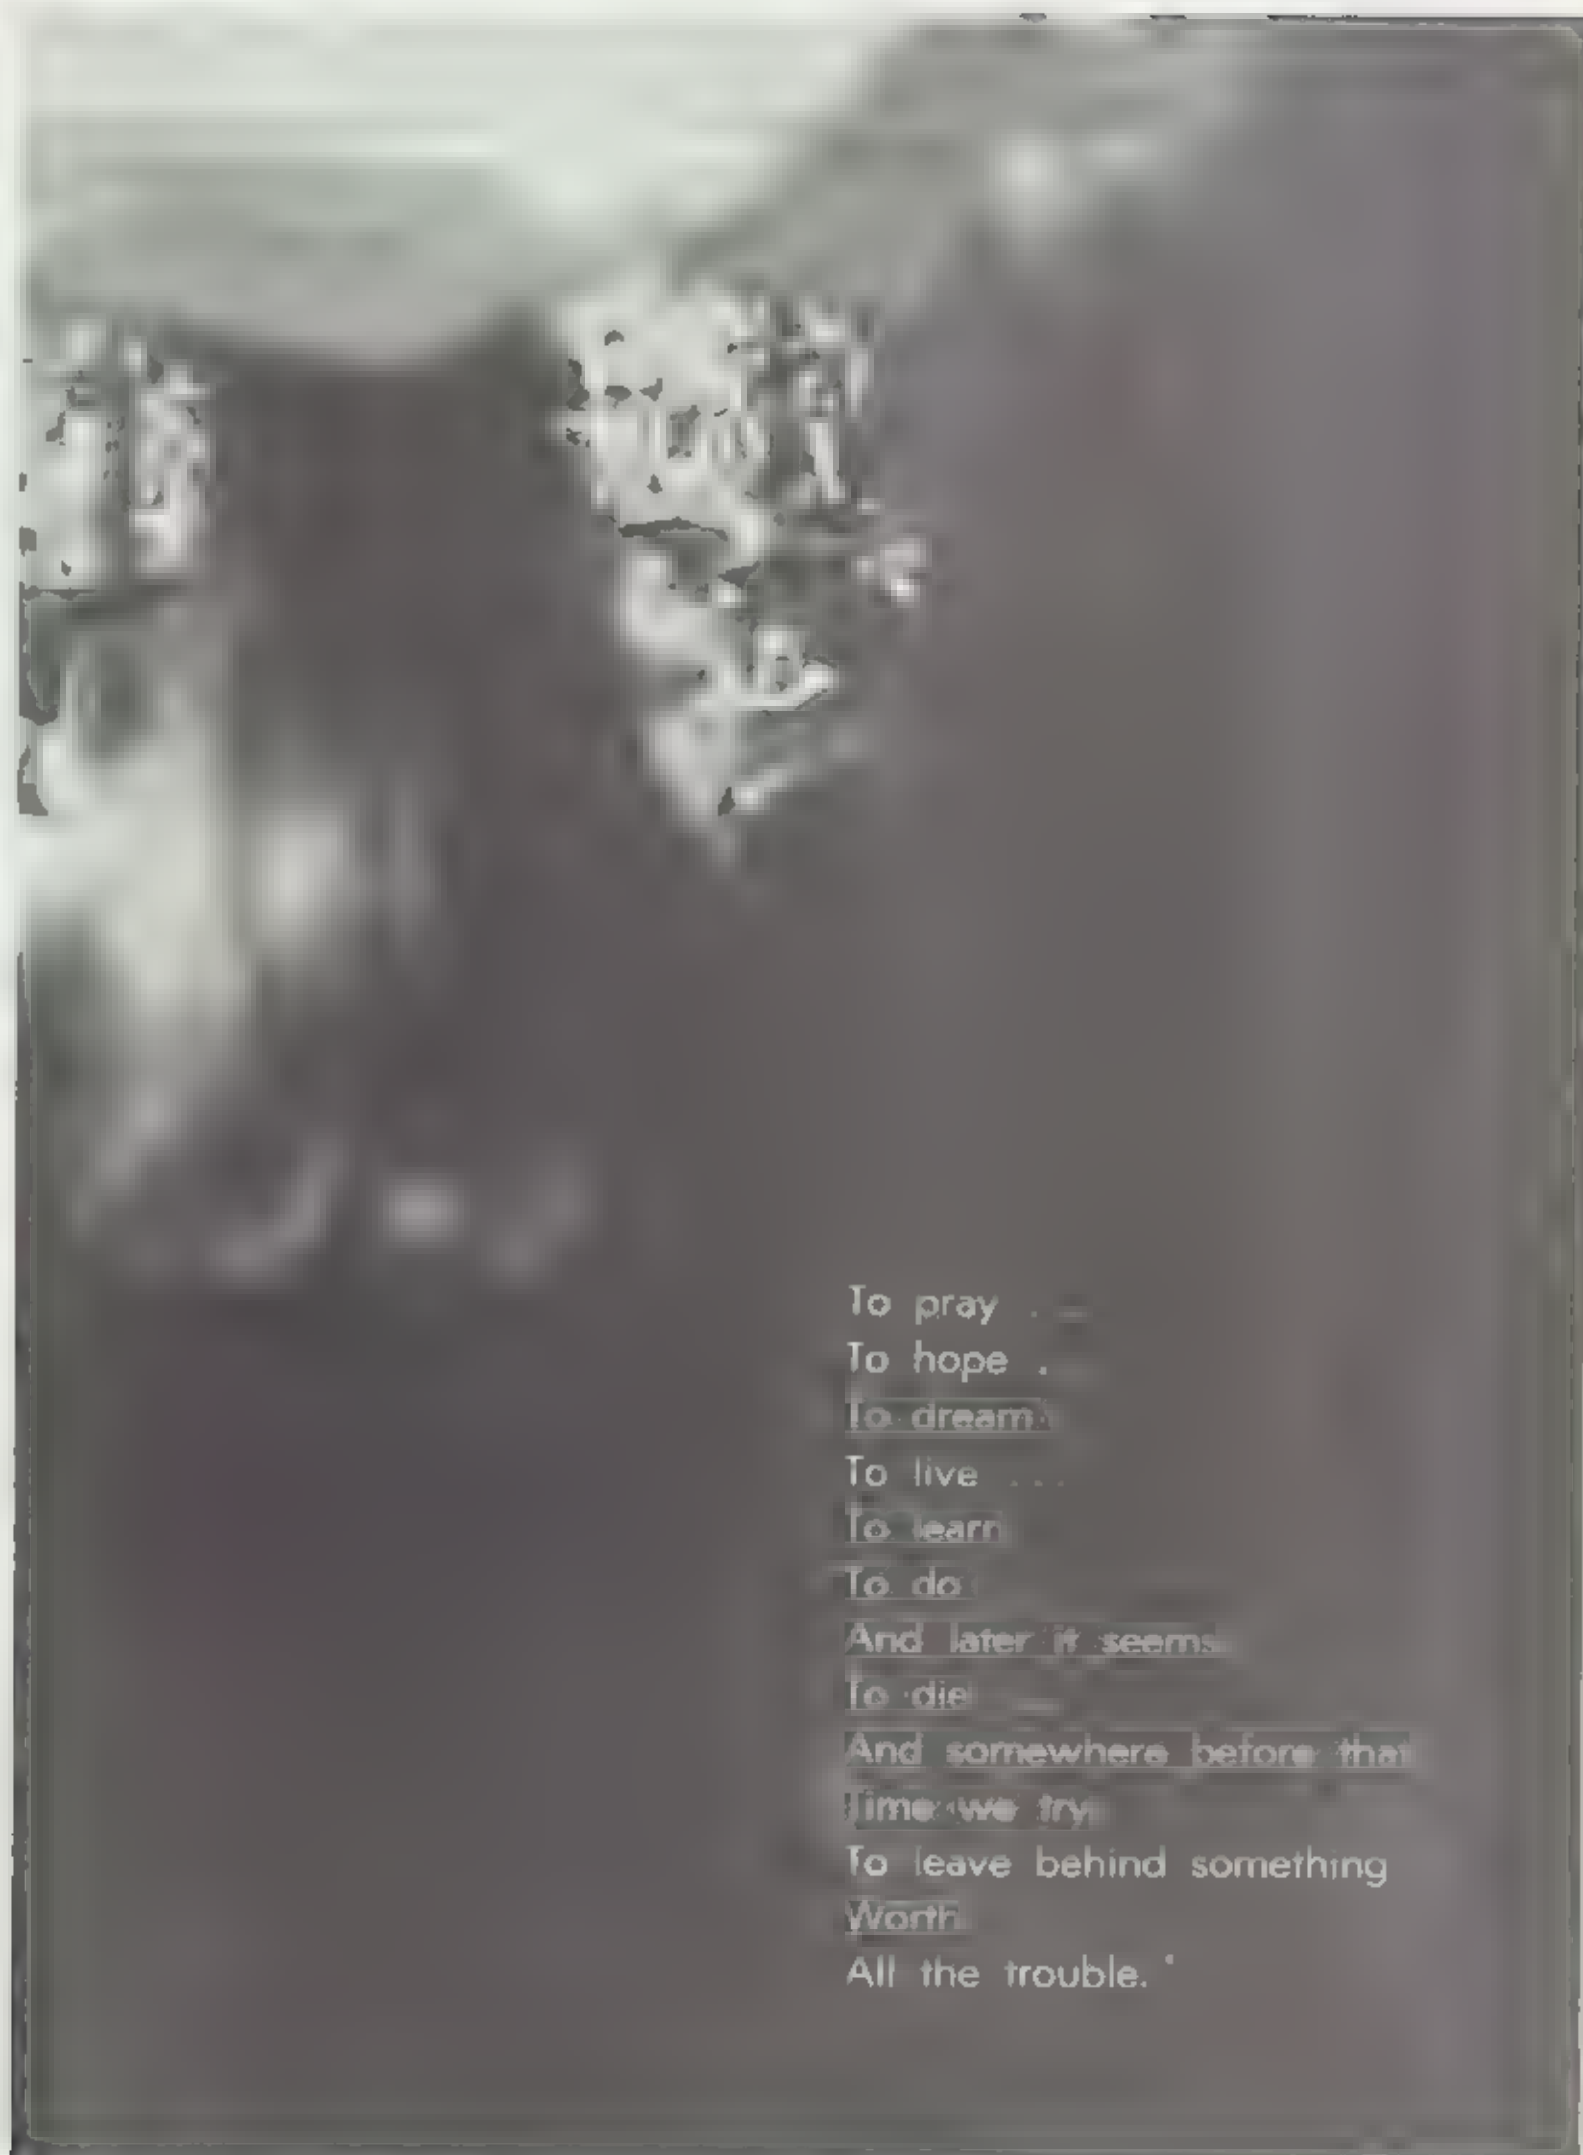

Cal Cook enjoys receiving her hard earned diploma from the Board of Directors at Commencement

Julie Lewis and Sue Beeman appear frightened as they lead the procession of graduating Seniors

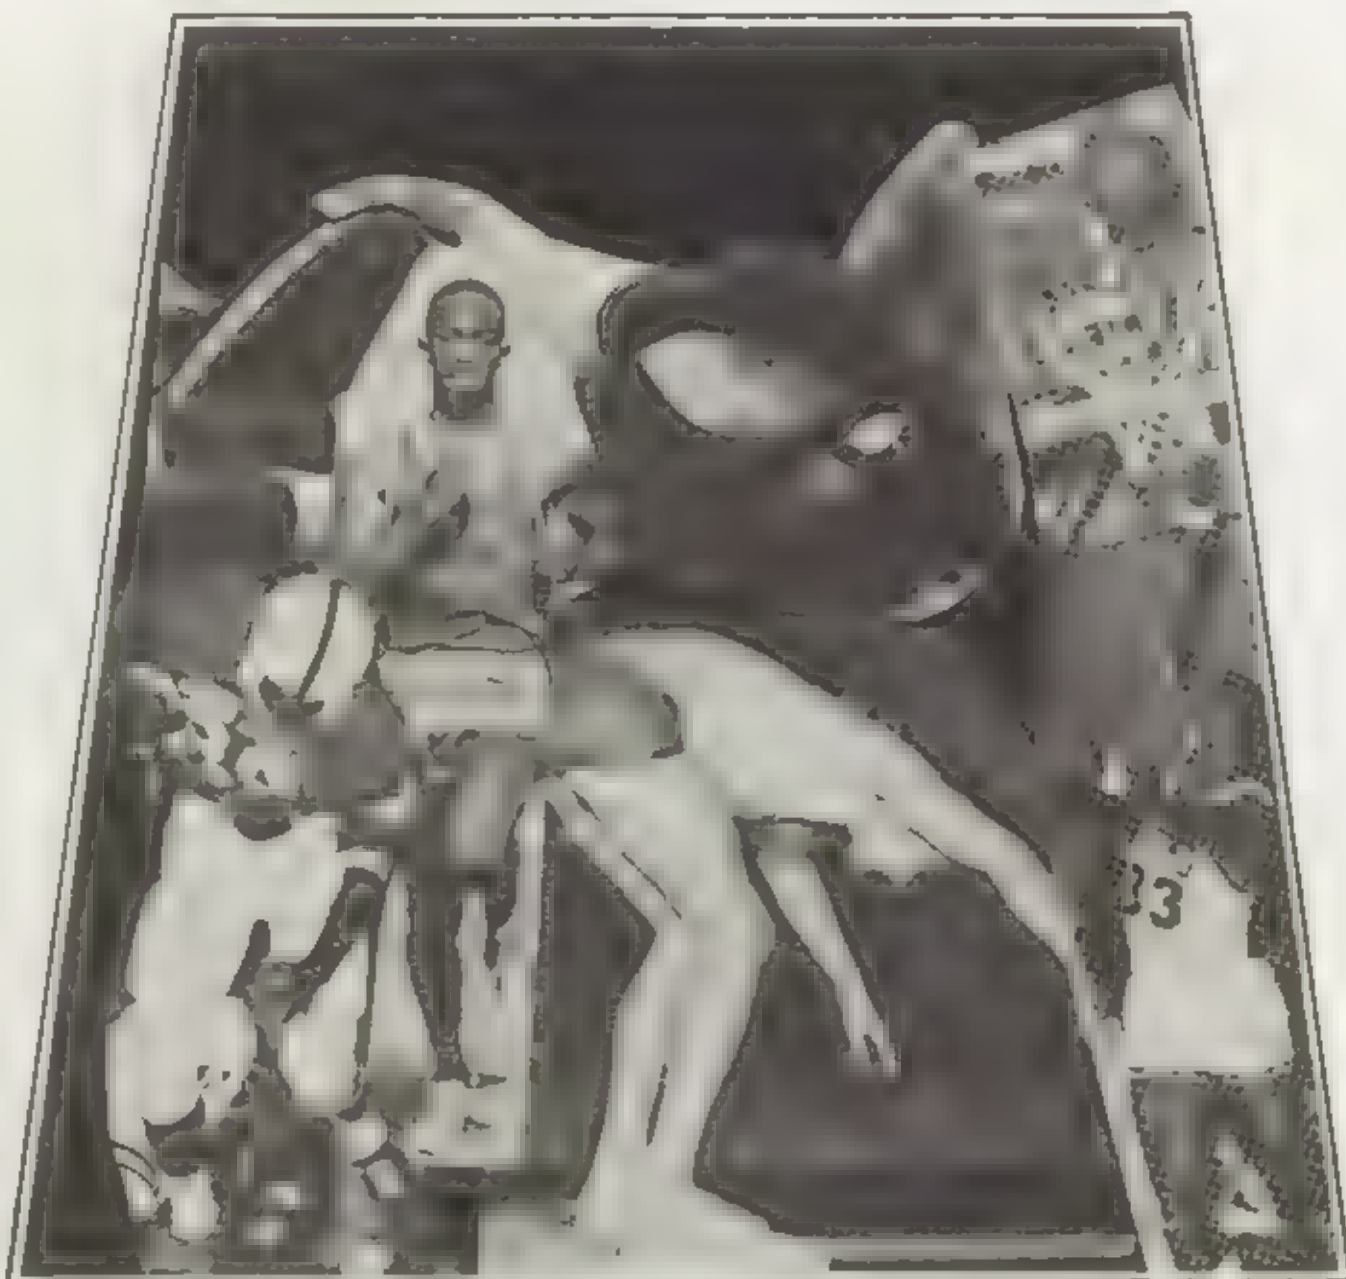

there is only opportunity

To pray . . .
To hope . . .
To dream . . .
To live . . .
To learn . . .
To do . . .
And later it seems
To die . . .
And somewhere before that
Time we try
To leave behind something
Worth
All the trouble. '

There's a new world coming
It's getting closer every day
There's a new world coming
Where we're equal in every way
There's a new world coming
Bringing peace, love and joy
There's a new world coming
Brought by every girl and boy
There's a new world coming
So please
Don't give up

A white man is better than an Indian, Oriental, or Black man.
But it is not true.
